DR. DALLAS B. BAILEY, JR.
President, Salem College

May your visit today be a happy one as you join us in the spirit of friendly athletic competition. On behalf of the Salem College faculty, staff, students, and alumni, I extend a sincere welcome to our campus.

We are proud of our athletic heritage across the years; equally proud of our new stadium, our new athletic facilities, our coaching staff, and our present team. We look forward to a game played in a spirit of friendly rivalry that will enhance pride in ourselves and respect from others. Whether we win or lose, we shall have played a good game!

After the enjoyment of today's game, if time permits, visit with us on our campus. See our Valley of Learning with its new facilities; visit our Heritage Arts Fort where we are preserving our Appalachian heritage; and meet our faculty, staff, and students who make the Salem campus a friendly place to work, live, and learn.

Again, may I, on behalf of all involved with Salem College, extend our hearty welcome and our invitation to make yourself at home. Have fun! Come back often to see us!

After 25 years, Ye Olde Stonewall Sandwich Bar has acquired quite a reputation, and just as unique is the atmosphere. It's a favorite place for the businessman to get a quick and tasty breakfast or lunch, and just as famous for the stories and antics that range from West Virginia & Salem College Sports to "pure bull" and practical jokes. Do yourself a favor! Take a break from the hum-drum, work-a-day world and have breakfast or lunch in Clarkburg's most unusual place to eat.

SALEM COLLEGE

In December, 1888, the citizens of Salem, W.Va., established a school for the youth of the local community. Eight-eight years later, residents of 34 states and 8 foreign countries make up the student body of 1,250 who attend that school - Salem College.

Salem is a private, independent college, offering bachelor and associate degrees in the liberal arts, career and pre-professional fields of study. Off-campus internships and field experiences are basic to the school's educational philosophy and programs.

The 100-acre campus is located in the foothills of the Appalachian Mountains at Salem, W.Va. 12 miles west of Clarksburg. The main campus, the Valley of Learning, encompasses six buildings constructed since 1968.

Six older buildings, plus Catalano Memorial Stadium and the Clarksburg campus for continuing education building, comprise the other college facilities.

One of the most unique features of the campus is Fort Salem, Center for the Heritage Arts. The Fort is a reconstructed 18th century log cabin village settlement, providing the setting for educational, social and cultural programs for the college and the community.

The Salem College Tigers have as their school colors green and white. The student government body, Community Congress, regulates all student activites and finances and the president of Community Congress is a voting member of the Salem College Board of Trustees.

Among Salem's most famous graduates have been United States senators (including West Virginia's current senior senator, Jennings Randolph), two West Virginia governors, two West Virginia state senators and two presidents of the National Educational Association.

Salem College is fully accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and the West Virginia Board of Regents. The college holds memberships in the Association of American Colleges, the Council for the Advancement of Small Colleges, the West Virginia Foundation for Independent Colleges, the American Council on Education, the Mountain State Association of Colleges and the American Association of Higher Education.

Salem's nursing program is accredited by the West Virginia Board of Examiners for Registered Nurses.

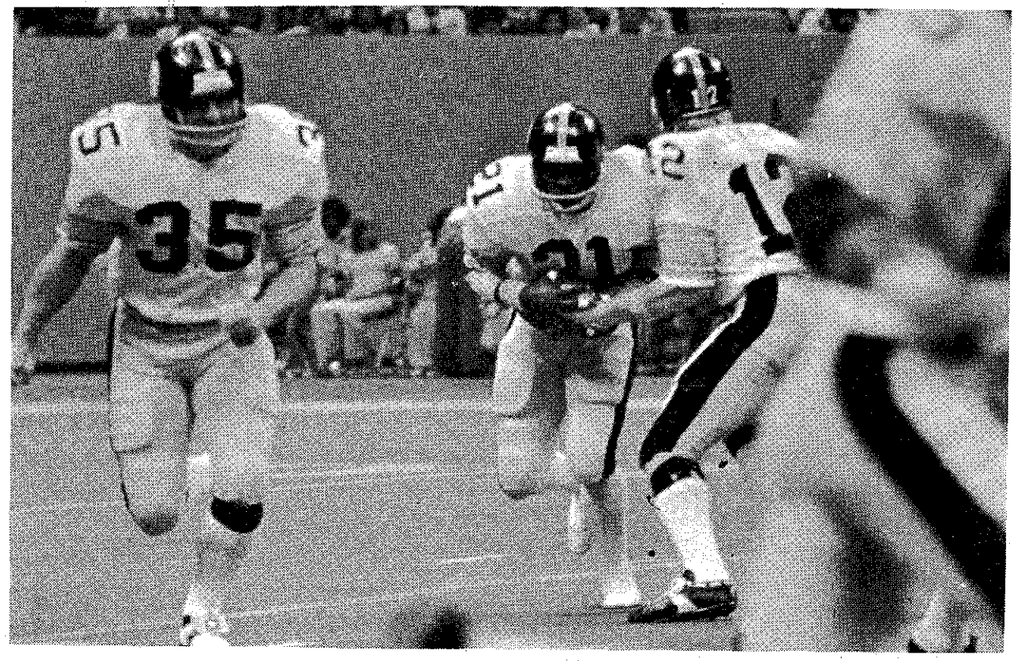
ALUMNUS NAMED DAVIDSON COACH

Dave Pritchett, a 1967 graduate of Salem College, has been named head basketball coach at Davidson College. Located in North Carolina, Davidson is a small college with an outstanding basketball tradition.

In the 1960's the Davidson Wildcats were often ranked in the national top 10. Recently, however, the North Carolina school has fallen on evil days, and Pritchett was hired to reverse the trend.

A 33-year-old native of Mullens, West Virginia, Dave has held a number of basketball posts around the nation. Most recently he was a top assistant of Charles "Lefty" Drisell at the University of Maryland, a perennial power in the basketball - strong Atlantic Coast Conference.

Dave played guard four years at Salem. In his prep days, he set a one-season scoring record at Greenbrier Military Academy and was an all-state guard for Mullens High School.



JACK DELOPLAINE

Jack Deloplaine [35] leads the blocking as Terry Bradshaw handles the hand-off for the Steelers.

JACK DELOPLAINE

It looks as though Jack Deloplaine has picked up where he left off last fall. A sixth round draft choice, the ex-Salem tailback is one of the Pittsburgh Steelers' best runners. As this article is going to press, Jack has rambled for 220 yards on 35 carries for the world champions. For his effort, Jack has won the admiration of his team mates and the Steelers' coaching staff.

But late last fall, Jack's prospects looked fairly dim. While he had amassed 4,033 career rushing yards during his tenure at Salem, Jack had been clocked at a very slow 4.8 seconds in the 40-yard dash on a muddy field. Since the NFL has tackles who can match that time, Jack attracted little attention in the pro ranks.

Then, however, Artie Rooney - a Steeler vice president, gave Jack another shot at the 40. On the artificial turf in WVU's Mountaineer Stadium, Jack turned in a very fast 4.5 and the Steelers decided to take a chance on him.

By all accounts, the Steelers have never regretted their decision. In his first pro game, Jack ran for 83 yards in only 11 carries against the New Orleans Saints. A week later he nearly equalled that performance against the Philadelphia Eagles. Jack's most impressive run was a 15-yard touchdown romp during which he shook off at least two would-be Eagle tacklers. For his ability to scoot around end, Jack was awarded the nickname "Hydroplane."

Jack's ability has raised a lot of eyebrows among the Steelers and the Pittsburgh sports writers. After Jack's New Orleans road show, quarterback Terry Bradshaw was asked if he was surprised by Jack's speed.

"He didn't surprise me," Bradshaw replied. "Man, he turns that corner so nice and low. He's fast son. He really showed me a lot tonight."

Running-back coach Dick Hoak said, "We knew he had it." He also added that Deloplaine "could be a great one."

No less enthusiastic is the Pittsburgh press corps. After the New Orleans game, Phil Musick, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, compared Jack favorably to Franco Harris, whom Jack had out-gained. Summing up the ex-Salem star's performance, Musick pointed out, "Deloplaine got 10 or more yards on 5 of his 11 attempts and deftly caught a pass despite running a pattern too shallow and winding up on his neck three yards short of the goal line. Moreover, he showed good balance and speed to the outside. . . "

Jack's only short suit is his blocking. The deep back in Salem's power-I is seldom required to block and Jack has reportedly been a bit slow in picking up the knack of blocking the hard-charging defensive linemen and line-backers of the NFL. But everthing points to the fact that Jack's speed will more than make up for this temporary deficit.

So tune in the Steelers some Sunday afternoon and look out for the "Hydroplane." Jack may have swapped his green and white jersey for the Steeler's black and gold, but he's still got that speed and power which won him a special spot in the hearts of all Tiger fans.

FOOTBALL TEAM

Last year the Salem Tiger football team had its most successful season. After sailing through a nine-game WVIAC schedule undefeated, the Tigers entered the NAIA championship play-offs. In the first game, the gridders defeated Ouachita Baptist University for the Eastern Regional Championship; but the Tigers lost the national title to super-power Texas A & I in the season's final contest.

At the season's end, the Tigers were ranked second nationally, placed several men on the All-American squad and contributed six men to the WVIAC All-Conference team, including the offensive and the defensive players of the year. All in all, 1975 was a most successful year.

But that was last year: the 1976 schedule is now facing Coach Joe Ault's crew and the holes left by graduation offer plenty of cause for concern.

Perhaps the biggest loss is tailback Jack Deloplaine who bulled his way to a record-smashing 4,033 yards of rushing. Jack's performance brought him a gaggle of honors -- including the West Virginia Amateur Athlete of the Year award and elected to the first-team All-American squad. But the best prize, perhaps, was Jack's sixth round draft from the world champions of football, the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Jack's not the only Tiger star who'll be missing from the line-up this year. Three-year All-Conference center Al Underdonk, WVIAC Defensive Player of the Year Jim Meeker and All-Conference punter John Goss are all among the missing.

Despite these and other losses, the Tiger head coach is still optimistic. A year ago Joe Ault won the district's coach-of-the-year award, and the determined look in his eyes shows that he's aiming to repeat his act for the bicentennial. To pull it off, Ault is depending on returning veterans who could guide the defensive and offensive teams to victory.

The Salem defensive squad, very strong last year, appears to be experienced, but it may lack the depth necessary for an outstanding season. The defensive leader is senior Joe Pomaranski. A two-year All-Conference tackle, Joe weighs a hefty 225. This year he co-captains the squad.

Other outstanding defensive veterans are guard Rocky Martin (220 pounds), back Al Stasiulewicz (190 pounds), and end Jack Miller (230 pounds). These veterans may give the Tigers a nucleus around which they can build a fine defensive squad. Hopefully, they can equal or better the record of last year's stingy defense, which allowed its nine regular-season opponents only 56 points.

The offense will be led by veteran signal-caller Dave Wright who has started at quarterback for the past four seasons. Carrying the ball for the Tigers will be Larry Riley, who was an All-Conference defensive back in 1975. In a bold attempt to replace Jack Deloplaine, Coach Ault has decide to move Riley to tailback.

The offensive line will be anchored by four-year regular Harry Crosser (250 pounds) at tackle and Bob McIntyre (225 pounds) who has been moved from tackle to tight end. Bob is also co-captain for 1976. Ed Ward (210 pounds) will be starting at one of the offensive guard spots for the fourth year.

One particularly welcomed returnee is Mike Brochetti, the first-team All-American placekicker. Last year, Mike kicked 13 field goals. This total includes 5 kicks outside the 40-yard line and one amazing kick of 52 yards. He was also 27 of 31 for the PATs. He should be able to supply some of the offensive fire power necessary for a succesful campaign.

"Along with the returning veterans," says Coach Ault, "there are some outstanding freshman recruits coming in the fall. The coaching staff feels the newcomers will add the needed depth, and challenge the veterans for starting positions.

"Our combination of returning veterans and newcomers should give Salem the football team necessary to continue its winning tradition in 1976," concludes Coach Ault.

If he's right, Catalano Memorial Stadium could be the scene of some ferocious action this fall. And who knows, the Tigers may get another shot at those bad guys from Texas.
